

Abstract of the Disclosure

A dynamic gain equalizer using amplification instead of attenuation is disclosed. The device relies on integrated semiconductor optical amplifiers in line with a demultiplexer on a single integrated substrate for performing equalization of signals within each of a plurality of channels.